

Ideas addressed (WIP)

Conceptualization:

The Idea for shared is to share and reinforce reification about life as a homosexual man. During research I have found that video is the most impactful form of media. To differentiate my idea from other software I decided to create an interactive experience stemmed from homosexual men. With an addition of other features to strengthen the users frame work of "Plan, Do, Study, Act".

To appeal to the community, I decided to create this app as an offline concealed experience as it appeals with the most common form of Orientations used by this community (content, relationships). This presentation of intimate stories will help build a personal communication stream via interactive stories.

Work

Majority of the Plan concept exist in my Listen feature. In this feature a user can listen to a story uninterrupted by the interactive events. Each story is locked until the user plays through the story in the "stories" section. Users can plan out what stories they want to fully listen by browsing and playing any story out of the predetermined set. There is a natural progression as the stories presented will be ordered to mimic the order problems a gay man would face in life, however in the "Stories" section a user can play through any story in any order.